

National Law Award Acknowledges Anderson Lloyd's Leading Expertise

Anderson Lloyd was named "Mid-Size Law Firm of the Year" at the 10th annual New Zealand Law Awards, cementing the firm as a top-tier nationwide practice.

The award acknowledged excellence in client service and leading expertise in advising across a broad range of practice areas. More than 450 people from the legal industry attended the event, which was held in Auckland recently.

Anderson Lloyd chief executive Richard Greenaway said the win is a significant achievement for the firm, particularly as it continues on its growth path with the recent opening of an Auckland office led by three former Russell McVeagh partners.

"We believe Anderson Lloyd has a unique place in New Zealand's legal environment, offering our clients the benefit of a national practice combined with expertise in the industries focused on growing the economy," says Richard.

"The title of 'Mid-Sized Law Firm of the Year' is achieved with the dedication of our 130-strong team, which features some of the country's sharpest legal minds who are committed to delivering successful outcomes for our clients."

Anderson Lloyd was established in Dunedin in 1862 and also has offices in Auckland, Christchurch and Queenstown.

Two new partners recently joined the team in Christchurch, where in June the firm re-opened a permanent office on the third floor of Anderson Lloyd House in Gloucester Street.

The structure was the first multi-storey office building constructed post-quake within the heart of the city's CBD and the first to receive urban design consent after the release of the Christchurch Central Recovery Plan.
